Northwestern's Fifth Annual Updates in Clinical and Surgical Gynecology CME Symposium

Program Chair: Susan C. Tsai, MD

Program Co-chair: Angela Chaudhari, MD

There have been many recent advances in the treatment of patients with various gynecologic conditions yet there are still significant knowledge gaps, specifically in the diagnosis and comprehensive management of complex gynecologic issues. The content of this course helps bridge evidence-based medicine and clinical practice in the office and operating room settings.

This educational program is focused toward community healthcare professionals involved in the care of patients with gynecologic disease. Various areas of clinical and surgical gynecology will be covered, and potential changes in patient management will be discussed. In addition to our lectures, a hands-on course will be offered to allow participants to learn and practice common techniques in basic as well as advanced hysteroscopy and laparoscopy.

We are honored to welcome guest speaker, Linda Bradley, MD, Professor of OB/GYN & Reproductive Biology, Vice Chair, OB/GYN & Women's Health Institute, and Director, Center of Menstrual Disorders, at Cleveland Clinic.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

After attending this educational activity, participants should be able to:

- 1) Review old techniques and utilize new techniques while applying these to current surgical practice in hysteroscopy and laparoscopy.
- 2) Identify, differentiate and treat various vulvar dermatoses commonly seen in the office.
- 3) Review and apply current evidence for management of the adnexal mass.
- 4) Describe implications of muscle contraction and pelvic pain.
- 5) Identify and utilize applications to workup incontinence in the office.
- 6) Apply evidence to reduce surgical site infections as well as to reduce narcotic use for postoperative pain.
- 7) Utilize office hysteroscopy effectively.
- 8) Discuss current evidence for workup of infertility patients.
