Philosophy

A majority of children presenting to primary care clinics have a dermatologic complaint, whether primary or secondary. Primary care training programs have traditionally offered little formal dermatology instruction for their residents, and the current era of managed care is mandating that a larger proportion of these diseases be managed by the primary care physician and/or nurse practitioner.

This course will focus on practical pediatric dermatology for the primary care provider, with emphasis on correct diagnosis, therapeutic options and clinical pearls. The target audience is pediatricians, family practitioners, dermatologists, nurse/practice practitioners and residents in these programs.

Lectures this year will cover the recognition, diagnosis and treatment of warts, molluscum, and herpes infections; common fungal skin infections; psoriasis and other papulosquamous disorders in children; rashes in the neonate; atopic dermatitis; moles, melanomas, and sun protection; emergency room pediatric dermatology; infestations, bites and insect repellents; common vascular disorders including hemangiomas and vascular malformations; acne vulgaris and autoimmune disorders in children, including vitiligo, alopecia areata, lupus, morphea/scleroderma and dermatomyositis. There will also be two "Guess the Diagnosis" lectures, with pediatric dermatology textbooks awarded at the end of the day for the top attendee scorers.

Educational objectives

At the conclusion of the course, participants should be able to:

- Identify common and important skin disorders in infants, children and adolescents
- Discuss the appropriate management for some common skin disorders and the underlying bases for their causes
- Describe new therapies for several common skin conditions and when to use them
- Identify when referral to a specialist is appropriate
- Develop new strategies for evaluation, diagnosis, and management of pediatric dermatoses, skin infections, neonatal rashes, infestations, vascular skin disorders and autoimmune cutaneous diseases.
