LURIE CANCER CENTER
Multidisciplinary Head & Neck Symposium

November 10-11, 2018

The Lurie Cancer Center Multidisciplinary Head & Neck Symposium is a one and one-half day interactive program on the diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation of head and neck cancer patients. The symposium brings together medical oncologists, radiation oncologists, otolaryngologists, head and neck surgeons, dentists, nurses and allied health professionals to discuss and debate the latest advances in multidisciplinary therapies, clinical research and supportive care methodology. The agenda features internationally-recognized experts who will engage attendees in dialogue to improve multi-specialty collaboration in the treatment and care of head and neck cancer patients.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. Apply a multidisciplinary approach to the treatment of head and neck cancer.
2. Assess state-of-the-art therapeutic options for the treatment of head and neck cancer including:
   i. Minimally invasive surgical treatment including robotic surgery, image-guided skull base surgery, and sentinel lymph node mapping.
   ii. Novel radiation delivery methods including proton beam therapy and Image-Guided Radiation Therapy (IGRT).
   iii. Incorporation of immunotherapy for treatment of advanced head and neck cancer.
3. Discuss future directions to the treatment of head and neck cancer based on the latest basic science and clinical developments including:
   i. The diagnosis and treatment of human papillomavirus (HPV) positive oropharyngeal.
   ii. The latest developments in the molecular biology of head and neck cancer and its impact on management.
   iii. The role of biomarkers in the contemporary management of head and neck cancer.
4. Discuss new staging guidelines (8th edition AJCC) for head and neck cancer.
5. Apply current treatment guidelines to patients with head and neck cancer.
6. Integrate quality measures for the care of head and neck cancer into their own clinical practice.
